EASTFORD — The bridge over Bigelow Brook on Ashford Road has stood firm since 1937. In 2027, 90 years after it first was constructed, it will finally be replaced.

At a meeting on Tuesday, July 16, The CT Department of Transportation (CT DOT) held an informational meeting for the public, detailing the upcoming project that will give a much-needed update to a bridge that has far outlived its service life.

According to CT DOT Supervising Engineer and Project Manager Marc Byrnes, funding for the $4.41-million, "Design Managed by State" (DMS) project will come from the Federal

Recycling guidelines outlined by selectmen

EASTFORD — The Town of Eastford contracts with Casella Waste Systems in Willimantic, CT, for hauling and disposal of trash and recyclables from the Transfer Station. Casella offers significant municipal rebates for clean cardboard. In addition, the elimination of clean cardboard from Eastford's general household trash will reduce that trash's tonnage and cost to the town.

- Recyclable Cardboard: Cardboard shipping boxes (flattened, packaging tape removed), corrugated cardboard, pizza boxes (empty with no food/grease residue), uncoated cardboard egg cartons, cereal boxes (without inside plastic or wax paper liner), paper box board (tissue boxes), and paper towel and toilet paper rolls.

- Not Recyclable Cardboard: Cardboard with stuck-on food or grease stains, 'cardboard-like' milk and juice containers (they have plastic coating that is not recyclable), waxed or treated cardboard, paper cups, paper or magazines laminated with plastic, mail/mailing envelopes, books, Styrofoam, and spiral wound containers used to package products such as frozen orange juice, potato chips, nuts, dried fruit, oatmeal, and dough for cookies and biscuits (these containers are made of paper with metal or plastic resin liners, plastic or metal bottoms/rims.)

New signage has been placed at the Transfer Station to assist the public in using the proper receptacles for their recyclables. Please do not put non-cardboard items in the cardboard-only bin, as this would contaminate the load and adversely impact the town's ability to collect Casella's rebates. Single stream recycling collection mixes all recyclable paper fibers and containers (paper, plastic, metal, and glass) together. Casella's processing system separates the various recyclables from Eastford's single stream recycling bin for the recycling activities. Casella is required to inspect incoming loads for potential violations of Connecticut recycling regulations. Plastic bags and film, Styrofoam, full/partially full drink bottles, wood, yard waste, packaging insulation, and food waste, are all examples of items which result in load contamination.

Eastford's rating for a recent audit by Casella was "clean" thanks to the awareness and diligence of our citizens and transfer station employees! Please continue to help the town comply with State recycling law and prevent rejection of single stream loads by emptying all containers before placing them in the single stream bin and by ensuring that only paper, plastic, metal, and glass items are placed there. In addition to following signage, the Transfer Station attendant can assist you in the correct placement of your trash items. Please call the Selectmen's Office at 860-974-0133, ext. 3, if you encounter any issues or require additional information. Thank you for your full cooperation!

Scouts remain active

EASTFORD/ASHFORD — Cub Scout Troop 92 was the Honor Guard and marched in the Ashford Family Fun Day Parade on Sept. 15. In September, the Troop held a Court of Honor to award merit badges and advancements in rank earned during the summer. We welcomed former Cub Scouts into Troop 92. The Troop also doubled in size! Older Scouts instructed the newcomers in scouting, starting with knot tying. Upcoming activities include fall hiking, campouts, and Scouting instruction.

Cub Scout Pack 92 will kick off another year with their first pack meeting on Friday, Oct. 4, at Knowlton Hall, at 7 p.m. The first pack meeting is a great time for girls and boys entering first to fifth grade to come and see all that the scouts have to offer. The theme of the first meeting is games and they will have something for everyone. New members are welcome.

EASTFORD — More than 100 children convened at Eastford Elementary School every morning during the week of July 22-26 for the annual Sports Camp event hosted by the Congregational Church of Eastford, Living Proof Church in Ashford, and UW Sports Ministry. The theme of the week was “Undefeated,” based on Romans 8:37-39, and kids were given instruction in several sports, including basketball, soccer, flag football, and cheerleading. Kids also participated in singing, rallies, and Bible lessons during the week.

ANNUAL PROGRAM RAISES MORE THAN $1K FOR MISSIONARY FAMILY

EASTFORD — Eastford Baptist Church hosted its annual Vacation Bible School nightly from Monday, July 29 through Friday, Aug. 2. The theme, "Scripture Safari," placed the children in an African safari theme as they learned about the Bible in their nightly lessons. In all, 92 children registered for the event, who through a Penny War all week, raised more than $1,000 for Caleb and Melissa Gibello, missionaries currently serving in Papua New Guinea. The week concluded with a family BBQ in the church's Family Activity Center. Next year's Christmas-themed VBS, titled, Christmas Chronicles: Celebrating the Birth of the Savior, is currently slated for July 28-Aug. 1, 2025.

2024 ELECTION

ELECTION PREVIEW 35TH STATE SENATE DISTRICT

The Eastford Communicator sent a questionnaire to both candidates, with the same questions, with the same rules. These answers are edited due to space constraints — but every care was taken to preserve points made by the candidates, in the interest of fairness.

INCUMBENT (R)

1. In your opinion, what are some of the most important issues facing the 35th Senate District, and Eastford specifically?

"The #1 issue that is on the minds of everyone I meet, talk, and work with is the high cost of living and taxation in Connecticut. Other issues of concern are public safety and public education. These are all issues that I have been working on as a State Senator."

2. How do you hope to tackle these issues if re-elected to the State Senate?

"I will continue my strong track record of working with and working for people. For example, I advocated for and helped pass historic income tax cuts, increases in the earned income tax credit, and expansion of tax exemptions for retirement accounts, pensions, and IRAs. I worked to stop $2.5 million in public education cuts to the Senate District and worked to increase state funding overall for public education. I stand strong in providing law enforcement with the resources they need, to empower them to do what they are trained to do to keep us safe and help us when we need help, and to hold criminals accountable for their crimes. I stand strong in defending all of our individual rights, parental rights, and medical freedoms, and have a track record of doing so. And, as a state senator and a doctor, I have worked successfully to keep needed health care services in our region and to help expand services, including maternal health, labor and delivery, and women's health."

3. Why did you decide to run for re-election to the State Senate?

"I am running for re-election to continue the work I do every day for the people of Eastford and of the 35th State Senate District. It is an honor to serve, including being someone who provides constituent services for people when they need help."

4. Talk about your background. What makes you stand out as the best choice for State Senator?

"I have a strong track record of public service. I was the Chairman of Woodstock's Planning & Zoning Commission for 15 years. I have been serving as State Senator for two years. My work ethic is to roll up my sleeves, delve into the work that needs to be done, learn the facts of what is going on, tell the truth, provide people opportunities to have their voices heard, and always use common sense. My track record is strong for working with people, working for people, and working together to get good things done. I often say that it is not just what a person does that matters, but also how they do it. On both accounts I have a proven, strong track record. I serve on the Public Health, Public Safety, Appropriation, and veterans & Military Affairs Committees, which provides me good vantage points to serve the 35th Senate District. I am also a Co-Chair of the Rural Caucus to help our part of the state."

5. Can you share a personal story or experience that highlights your commitment to public service?

"Two experiences come to mind about my public service at a personal level. First, when I was chairman of Woodstock's Planning & Zoning Commission, there was a young family that sought my help understanding how to use the land they bought to build a house and start a small business home occupation. They were confused by the town's zoning regulations. I was able to help them. I was able to update the zoning regulations to make them easier to understand and better able to serve the people of the town.

Second, during my time as a State Senator, I have been approached by many veterans who need assistance learning about and accessing services they have earned through their service to our country. I have been proud as the Ranking Member on the Veterans & Military Affairs Committee to help them and their families."

6. What is the most important thing you would say to an undecided voter heading to the polls on Nov. 5?

"You want and deserve a State Senator who works hard every day, works for you, tells the truth, lets you know what is going on, seeks hearing from you, and is a strong voice for you to get things done with a track record of proven results. I am the state senator serving you that has that track record. Let's continue to work together."

THE LIGHTNING ROUND

1. Describe yourself using only three words.

"Common-sense, family-oriented, and hard-working."

2. If you were trapped on a deserted island, and could have only one book, which book are you choosing?

"The Hobbit"

3. What's your favorite movie?

"Star Wars ... the original."

4. What is your favorite hobby?

"Legos."

5. What are your top three albums of all time?

"Phil Collins, Beatles, Taylor Swift."

6. You have the opportunity to eat dinner with three people, dead or alive. Who are you inviting to dinner?

"Always my wife! Ted Williams (and get an autograph on a baseball), and former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt."

7. What is your dream vacation?

"Going to Cape Cod with my family."

8. What's your favorite local place to visit?

"Any restaurant that serves pizza."

9. What's your favorite snack?

"Potato chips."

10. A genie grants you one wish. What do you wish for (besides more wishes)?

"The opportunity to spend more time in my life with my family and friends."

1. Describe yourself using only three words.

"Accomplished. Straightforward. Resilient."

2. If you were trapped on a deserted island, and could have only one book, which book are you choosing?

3. What's your favorite movie?

"Shawshank Redemption."

4. What is your favorite hobby?

"Creating mixed media art."

5. What are your top three albums of all time?

"Any hiking trails in the district!"

9. What's your favorite snack?

"One of the following: 1. Peace on earth; 2. To protect all children from any harm or illness; 3. To give a wish to someone deserving that needs it more than I do."

ELECTION PREVIEW 35TH STATE SENATE DISTRICT

The Eastford Communicator sent a questionnaire to both candidates, with the same questions, with the same rules. These answers are edited due to space constraints — but every care was taken to preserve points made by the candidates, in the interest of fairness.

In your opinion, what are some of the most important issues facing the 35th Senate District, and Eastford specifically?

"The cost of living in the district, [including] incredibly high Eversource rate hikes. Property tax increases, coupled with lack of funding for education, laying off teachers and support staff. Slow or no modernization of infrastructure. Our senior citizens, young adults, and middle-class families need affordable, attainable, inclusive housing options to allow them to stay, downsize, or move back to [their hometowns]. Our regional hospitals need to re-establish maternity care and other services."

2. How do you hope to tackle these issues if elected to the State Senate?

"We need to investigate price gouging. As companies make record-breaking profits, we continue to pay the price. The Eversource situation should have been addressed before we received increases. ... I will fight price gouging at every opportunity."

We must start getting our fair share of funding from the state. Receiving a grant here or there is not enough. Our general funds require more to allow us to increase funding for education, seniors, and property tax stabilization.

We need to make adjustments to outdated planning and zoning that stymies opportunity for middle-class citizens by adjusting building codes, turning empty commercial properties into home, land use, and other uses.

It is time regional hospitals became part of the state hospital system. We do not want our health to become a commodity owned by

3. Why did you decide to run for election to the State Senate?

"I have been asked to run for this seat several times over the years. Senior citizens and middle-income families are struggling when they should be prospering and saving. Young people want to come back to the district, but cannot afford to. Teachers are being laid off or are leaving the district. Environmental issues, health care, and other issues have seen no progress. As I have lived in eastern Connecticut my entire life, I will always stand up for what is right and do what is best for our district without compromise."

4. Talk about your background. What makes you stand out as the best choice for State Senator?

"I bring a fresh, new perspective and an extensive, highly successful business background as a director of Regulatory Insurance Technology and small business owner. I have been civically involved with many committees and non-profit organizations over the years. My family is union strong, works in law enforcement (State Police) and the Stamford Superior Court, and in the military, from brigadier general to staff sergeant. As someone that started their career in the tobacco fields at 13, and has lived/worked in Connecticut my entire life, I understand people from every walk of life."

5. Can you share a personal story or experience that highlights private equity firms. I will fight for our district's hospitals. ... Every person in our district deserves available and quality health."

your commitment to public service?"

"I was a Brownie and a Girl Scout. I was always civically involved, from the American Red Cross to the U.S. Marine Corps Toys for Tots program, to Habitat for Humanity, to Tolland Together with the Hartford Foundation for Giving, etc. Many times, years later, someone tells me about how they paid it forward due to something I did to help them. It's always humbling.

For example, when called upon by the Governor's Prevention Partnership to help create a mentoring program to include corporations and local schools, I created safety protocols to protect children. Working with the GPP was life-changing. It was many years later when a former student recognized me [and] told me about her decision to become a registered nurse. She told me the mentoring program was the first time someone really took an interest in her ... and she never forgot that. It was a heartwarming conversation and wonderful that she was paying it forward."

6. What is the most important thing you would say to an undecided voter heading to the polls on Nov. 5?

"I am here to represent all people in the district, regardless of affiliations. I've been endorsed by the Independent Party and the Working Families Party. My family is involved in law enforcement and the military, as well as union members. Results matter. ... I will fight to ensure we are no longer an afterthought. I will do the work, as I have done my entire stellar career, to ensure success."

'Fall Extravaganza' coming to 4-H Camp

On Oct. 19 this year, Windham-Tolland 4-H Camp will be holding its 3rd Annual Fall Extravaganza from 2-4 PM. In the midst of teen weekend, teens help to decorate the cabins on the trick or treat trail and are on hand to run games, hand out candy and happily give tours to visitors at this fun event. It costs only $5 per trick or treater, ages 2 and up. Go on the trick-or-treat trail and get an early start on their Halloween candy collection. No worries about traffic or walking around in the dark. It is the perfect time to break in this year's costume and take some great photos.

We will have s'mores and hot chocolate at the fire pit by the pond for everyone to enjoy. The donut eating contest is always a hit and we have other games to keep our visitors occupied. "Buck's on the Run" will be there for purchase of your favorite ice cream along with some other sweet treats for sale. Proceeds benefit the Health Center Renovation. This is a great family event and it is a good chance to check out our camp facilities, enjoy the fall foliage and meet some of our staff. Event is rain or shine.

EASTFORD BAPTIST CHURCH UPDATE

TIMOTHY R. HOWARD JR.

The picture I included this month displays one of my favorite parts of the history of Eastford Baptist Church, namely our historic meeting house. Of our services today. Later, in 1955 an addition was added to this same area to accommodate a growing Sunday School program, which is still going today. In 1962, a two-story "Christian education wing" was added, which included the luxury of bathrooms finally being added to the building. A final addition was added in 1978, this time to the sanctuary, doubling its size and adding more classrooms. The most recent construction on our church property is a separate Family Activity Center which includes classrooms, a gym, and a kitchen.

As you can tell from the style of vehicles, this picture was taken in the early 1900's with our meeting house prominently featured in the background. While the church was established in 1793, the building in the picture is the second meeting house in our church's life, being completed in October 1843 and still stands at 133 Union Road today.

Since this picture was taken our building has gone through several renovations and additions, beginning in 1903 with what was known as the "chapel," which has since been converted to our lovely foyer where you would enter if you attended one

If you are in the area and would like to check out our beautiful campus and this historic building, please be sure to reach out to me or join us at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday for worship! Blessings!

The Congregational Church of Eastford offers programs open to the community designed to help people in various sorts of spiritual, emotional and practical need.

- Grief Share: The Congregational Church of Eastford will be offering a program called "Grief Share" beginning in October 2024. The program is designed to help people deal with the grief associated with the loss of a loved one. Many people have found comfort and hope through this compassionate program. The activities this fall include:

Their parents/caregivers are integral participants for classes designed for children ages birth to 3. Singing, focused listening activities, dancing, and playing skills are developed. Tuesday mornings from 10-10:30 a.m. (birth to 3 with caregiver), 10:45-11:30 a.m. (age 4+ independent for most of class). Meet at Church Offices, 4 County Road. Register at <https://ceastford.org/family-music-classes/>.

A quick update from Pastor Mike at the Congregational Church of Eastford. We continue to be grateful to our community and friends for all the support following the loss of our beautiful church building. You all are wonderful! It has been nearly a year and a half since the fire. Things take time, but we are making good progress toward our new building. We have acquired almost nine acres of land on John Perry Road and will be building a new, one-story facility there. The developing design will give us larger worship space, lots of kids' space to include an indoor play area, and a large community room to host receptions and events. It is our hope that we can be a rich blessing to Eastford and our greater community as we move into the future.

We are also adding to our staff, having called an associate pastor named Evan Burgess. He and his wife Chelsey grew up in Manchester, Conn., and have been serving a Christian missionary agency the last several years. They have a young son, Roman. They will be joining us right at the start of October. Our vision is that Evan will work alongside Pastor Mike for what will probably be a few years, after which Evan will take on the lead role. We are excited as he brings a love of the Lord, of people, and youthful energy (he is 32 years old) to help us step into a future with the up-and-coming generations.

FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT DONNA LEAKE

The transition from summer to fall has been a busy and very rewarding time for the Eastford Community of Learners. Although the official enrollment date is Oct. 1, 2024, we started the school year with 171 Eastford Elementary students and 55 high school, magnet and outplaced students.

Hopefully, you have noticed the esthetic and safety improvements of our school grounds that resulted from the completion of the paving of our driveway, playground and middle school walkway. This paving project has been a personal goal and a part of our long-term facilities plan. A special thanks to P. Willis Construction for their flexibility and willingness to work around our school schedule needs. Thanks also to Deb Richards for her efforts in obtaining a grant that covered the cost of paving the driveway and the playground and to our Public Works team for oversight of the work in progress. This project is truly a great example of the strong school, town, and community partnership spirit in Eastford.

Please join me in welcoming to the Eastford Elementary staff the following new staff members: Seth Budd, Mary Dennison, Chelsea Friedmann (paraeducators) and Tammy Goodwin (nighttime custodian). The Eastford School District is currently seeking people who are interested and qualified to serve as substitutes for teachers and/or paraeducators. If interested, please review the application process at <https://www.eastfordct.org/about-us-contact/employment-and-rfps/employment-and-rfps/>.

Our grant-funded after-school programs, under the direction of Candice Mead, is off to an exciting beginning. New and exciting programs have been added to the after-school schedule at no cost for students in grades K-8. We will also continue to offer free after-hours family partnership programs throughout the 24-25 school year. Please check our website <http://www.eastfordct.org> or contact the school office, 860-974-1130, for information regarding these offerings. Remember to also check the website for the very timely and informative newsletters written and distributed by Principal Carole McCombe.

TIPS FOR TODAY

LIZ ELLSWORTH

Calling all Pumpkins!

Autumn is here — full of all those things we love — colorful leaves, bonfires, spooky stories, cooler weather, apples, candy, football, Halloween, and all-things-pumpkin.

Perhaps, and hopefully, you still grab pumpkins for your front steps, or take joy in the childhood fun of carving Jack-o'-lanterns? Grab an extra pumpkin and fashion it into a bird feeder, or use your Halloween "leftover" Jack-o'-lanterns to make one, too. Pumpkins make a strong pedestal and re-purposing the gourds into feeders is recycling at its best.

The quick guide: Cut a pumpkin in half and hollow out the seeds. Grab some sticks for perches (to push through a side of the pumpkin), and a bit of string to hang it up. All you need after that is some bird seed. Mass Audubon and the National Audubon Society both have easy-to-follow directions will some additional tips. If you're a video/visual person, here's the pumpkin birdfeeder "how-to"

Audubon Society: https://youtu.be/eniE7\_2ewmw?si=V56Z5kXmckGcQKCB

- Mass Audubon: www.massaudubon.org/places-to-explore/activities/family-fun/young-explorers-activity-sheets/pumpkin-activities

- The Audubon Society: www.audubon.org/news/pumpkin-bird-feeder-makes-happy-harvest-birds

- Another easy guide, go here: www.familydaystriedandtested.com/pumpkin-bird-feeder

As we transition to autumn, let's hope for cooler, drier days in which we spend pleasant time in the garden. It is getting trickier to predict what each season will bring.

Autumn is the only time you should plant peonies. Fall is a good time to divide perennials, to plant trees, shrubs and spring-flowering bulbs. After the gray days of winter, there is nothing more welcoming than the bright colors of daffodils and tulips. Also consider the wonderful snowdrops that arrive so early. Winter aconite is a real treasure. And, there are crocus, scilla, glory-of-the-snow and hyacinths to cheer even the darkest days. These bulbs can be planted in November when most of the garden chores, except raking leaves, are finished.

While deadheading, pulling out annuals and raking leaves, why not start a compost pile? You can use free pallets, chicken wire or nothing at all to start your pile. Kitchen vegetable and fruit scraps, including coffee and tea grounds, just go to waste if you are not composting. The nutrient-rich soil you will create is an excellent growing medium and think of all the plastic bags (of soil) you won't be throwing in the trash.

If you find diseased leaves (rose blackspot for example) under your plants or weeds, do not put them into your compost. Put them in the trash. Weed as much as you can to prevent these unwanted plants from reseeding.

Fall lawn care (up until Oct. 15) includes reseeding, feeding, and the application of lime. After that date, most of the nitrogen in the fertilizer cannot be absorbed by the grass roots. Add limestone to lilacs, lavender and bearded iris.

Unfortunately, invasive plants are taking over our native forests. If you have any of the following plants on your property, get rid of them by mowing, cutting, and pulling repeatedly: Bittersweet vine, autumn olive, euonymous (Burning Bush), Japanese knotweed, barberry. In fact, barberry is a plant that attracts ticks. So, getting rid of it not only helps the forest — it will help you.

Auction proceeds to cover cost of trip to Capital

AUCTION

Recent trips have also included excursions to Baltimore Orioles baseball games.

Over the years, the Eastford School Auction Committee has led the charge to fundraise for the annual field trip, which costs more than $1,000 per student, on average. The money goes toward transportation, lodging, food, and other miscellaneous costs.

Auction Committee Co-Chairman Charlie Kernan recently sat down with the Communicator to preview the upcoming auction, which is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 16, starting at 5 p.m., at Eastford Elementary School. The event will feature a live auction, a silent auction, raffle items, food, and a bake sale — all to raise money for the trip. In recent years, the number of auction items has reached north of 100 unique and donated pieces, from gift certificates, to art, hand-crafted items, sports memorabilia, excursion experiences, appliances, and rare items.

"It takes a lot of work to make this happen," said Kernan, who added that work begins months ahead of time, usually at the end of school in June with a kickoff meeting that begins the process of drumming up engagement and figuring out how to put the auction together. This year, the Auction Committee is co-chaired by Kernan and Jeremy Barlow, who both lead a group of about 12 people in organizing the event.

"We are always looking for more volunteers," Kernan said. "The more the merrier. It's a lot of work getting out and building awareness, getting donations. We are appreciative of the people that help us out. It can't happen without volunteers and parents. We need as much involvement as we can get."

While fundraising may sometimes be a challenge, small class sizes in recent years have caused the committee to consolidate the trip to include seventh grade students. Such a situation occurred in 2022, so in 2023, the school forewent the trip, which gave the committee more time to fundraise. This year (2025), the committee plans to go back to just sending grade 8, while next year's trip (2026) is currently planned as a grade 7-8 trip because of the current seventh grade's smaller class size.

"The cost has become pretty robust," Kernan said, who said that despite the price tag which seems to rise every year (and currently sits at north of $1,000 per student), the committee is currently "in a good place" as it pertains to being able to cover the cost for the currently planned eighth-grade trip in May 2025.

"We are lucky that people in town and surrounding towns — the people who live in this community — are so generous," he said, adding a particular name — David Jakubowski — who Kernan described as a "a pillar of our auction," as someone he wanted to publicly thank.

As for the auction itself, proceeds are divided on a sliding scale, starting with the eighth grade, then divided amongst grades 5 through 7. This approach allows each class multiple years to fundraise for the trip.

"My goal for the auction is to do better than we did last year," Kernan said. "Our population is growing, so one of the things that comes with that is a larger expense for the auction itself. This is such a unique tradition to us, [so we hope] to continue to grow as our community grows, and continue this unique tradition."

On top of the educational value of visiting our nation's Capital, Kernan added that a large trip like Washington D.C. always seems to have a unifying effect on the students that attend. These effects are hard to quantify, but are very valuable nonetheless.

"It's something they get to experience together," he said, mentioning exceptionally powerful moments on recent trips at Ford's Theater (the site of Abraham Lincoln's assassination), past war monuments, the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial, and Arlington National Cemetery, which serves as an especially poignant location and local connection for Eastford residents — because it is the location of the gravesite of Eastford hero Joseph E. Phaneuf (SSG U.S. Army), who died in 2006 in Afghanistan.

"Having those moments with their parents and friends that they can cherish for the rest of their lives — pictures and shared experiences — those are the moments you talk about when you're older," he said.

At the end of the day, the Washington, D.C. field trip is an experience that serves as a culmination of the education offered at Eastford Elementary School over nine years, and the auction is designed as the major fundraising event to make it all happen. Kernan said that as of this writing, the committee is "confident" they will reach their goals, but every cent — and every minute of volunteered time — matters.

"People have been responding well," he said. "We have a great committee. Without them this wouldn't happen. But we also need parent involvement and donations of time. The more people we have to help out, the more we can put together. The only thing that limits us is the availability of people and the time they have to give. The more people get involved, the more we can spread out."

For more information on the auction, or to donate time or money to the field trip fund, call the school at (860) 974-1130, or email auction@eastfordct.org.

"If you can, please come out and support the auction," Kernan said. "As you walk around, you might even find Christmas presents. Walk around, provide a donation — any donation monetarily or through services or products goes toward the wellness of the D.C. trip for Eastford students."

Early education

EASTFORD — School has been back in session for about a month now. Pictured is Eastford Elementary School under construction in 1949. Back in 1847, there were eight school districts in Eastford with an enrollment of 345 students. By 1927, all students were sent to Center School except for those in Phoenixville. Eventually, all students were going to the Center School and it was determined that a new, larger school was needed. Photo and information provided by the Eastford Historical Society.

Traffic to be detoured for bridge reconstruction

BRIDGE

Local Bridge Program, and will be paid for with a combination of both federal (80 percent) and state (20 percent) funds. There will be no cost to the town. Spending will cover both the construction, planning, and development and execution of rights of way. The design portion, Byrnes said, will be "in full partnership and coordination with the town."

He added that the DMS program is designed to provide "a streamlined approach to design," using full CT DOT resources to aid the towns to keep their bridges in a "state of good repair" by effective use of funds, decreasing typical design time, and utilizing accelerated bridge construction (ABC) techniques to shorten construction duration while increasing the number of municipal projects delivered to construction each year.

During the meeting, Byrnes introduced his fellow members of the Project Team, which includes: Bart Sweeney, PE, Division Chief of Bridges for CT DOT; Derick Lessard, PE, Principal Engineer for CT DOT; Michelle Rame, PE, Project Engineer for CT DOT; Kathleen Ericson, Right-of-Way Property Agent, CT DOT; Anand Seshadri, PE, CLE Team CHA; and Stephany Dubina, CLE Team CHA.

According to Dubina, the 27-foot, 7-inch-long Ashford Road bridge, which is designated as "Bridge No. 04645" by CT DOT, is in need of replacement. Bridges in Connecticut are inspected biennially (once every two years), and are given a rating of 1 (imminent failure) to 9 (excellent) in several categories, which include the deck, approach, superstructure, substructure and channel/channel protection. Ratings for the Ashford Road bridge vary by category, ranging from 7 at the highest to 4 at the lowest. The bridge's railing (5) and guide rail (5) currently do not meet safety standards. Dubina said the bridge is "scour critical." According to the U.S. Geological Survey, bridge scour is "the process of erosion that occurs when fast-moving water removes sediment from around a bridge's abutments or piers." Dubina said the Ashford Road bridge's existing footings are "undermined and missing sections," is hydraulically inadequate, and that the substructure is rated "poor." However, despite the deficiencies, the bridge is considered "safe" by CT DOT, even though it has persisted long past its 75-year service life.

According to CT DOT's website on the upcoming project, the proposed 58-foot, 6-inch-long structure "will be comprised of prestressed concrete deck units with a cast-in-place topping slab supported by concrete abutments and flared wingwalls with foundations bearing on bedrock and support a 24[-foot] wide roadway meeting standards. The proposed structure with a 52[-foot]-wide hydraulic opening and the roadway raised by 1 [foot] will eliminate roadway overtopping and provide under-clearance during the 100-year design storm resulting in improved hydraulic adequacy. The project includes installation of new bridge and approach rail system meeting current safety standards and elimination of scour critical condition. Approximately 385 [feet] of roadway reconstruction is proposed including roadway drainage improvements."

The new bridge, Dubina said, will have a 75-year service life with minimal maintenance, will feature no weight restrictions, and due to the flared wingwalls being on bedrock, it should eliminate all scour concerns. New aesthetic improvements will also be included, including a liner on the concrete that will simulate stones, as well as a metallic bridge rail.

Because the current bridge is also part of the Natchaug Trail, minor adjustments to the trail are also planned to accommodate for the construction of the bridge, including crosswalks for pedestrians.

Once the project begins in spring 2027, Ashford Road will be closed in both directions for approximately eight months. A detour is currently planned that for drivers on the south side of Bigelow Brook, will mean heading south on Ashford Road and Floating Road, turning left onto North Road, then left on Route 44, then left on Route 198 to access the center of town. The detour is measured at 8.5 miles.

Right-of-way impacts associated with the proposed project include partial permanent takes (4 properties), a drainage right-of-way (3 properties), permanent slope easements (4 properties), and a temporary construction easement (1 property), along with rights to install gravel pull-offs, relocate a trail, removing and resetting stone walls, installing sediment control systems, and reconstructing a driveway.

Video of the July 16 meeting may be viewed at <https://youtu.be/Yz8SH9Dik70>.
